What additional information should be included in the data logging and telemetry protocol? We agree that data through data loggers and telemetry should be made available to the relevant Government departments to enable them to meet their compliance and administrative obligations. We do not support real-time account balances being made available to the public. We also believe that water users with their own existing data loggers and telemetry should be consulted with and enabled to share relevant data Departments to avoid the need for duplicated data and costly meter installations. What methods could be used to demonstrate the accuracy of existing meters in the field? Is guidance needed on the methods that can be used? We support the need to demonstrate the accuracy of existing meters, we do however encourage further comprehensive consultation with manufacturers and water users to achieve and support a sensible set of requirements that is economically sustainable for all. Do you have any comments on any of the proposed mandatory conditions? Mandatory Condition – recording additional information about water take
In principle we fully support transparency of water movement and use, although there seems to be a considerable imbalance between the requirement to satisfy the general public's perception and the protection of the actual licensed entitlement holder. We don't believe there is a need for further mandatory conditions to be imposed on water users within the Water Management (General) Regulation 2018, where the water take and purpose conditions are already imposed on the approval, licence and/or entitlement.
